Thank You

The month of December was a busy one. AWN would like to thank each one of our industry partners contributions to our Christmas celebrations, as well as our Aseniwuche Group of Companies staff, volunteers, Board of Directors and everyone who helped make our events festive, joyful and something to remember.

On December 4, we had a Christmas celebration for our community elders that included a hearty luncheon and an afternoon of bingo, we were able to provide gifts to approximately 65 elders including the ones who were unable to join the festivities. Prizes for the bingo included household staples which was flour, lard, baking powder, chocolates, cookies, tea etc, it was an afternoon of joy, laughter and fun. We would also like to thank Country Pumpout for donating porta potties as we ran into a situation the day of the elders celebration, they saved the day.

The Tawow Community Centre hosted the AWN Kids Christmas with a pool pizza party where the children ages 0-10 years all got a gift that was given out by a special guest Santa Claus, it was a day of big smiles and lots of fun.

Aseniwuche Group of Companies employees which consist of Aseniwuche Winewak Nation, Aseniwuche Environmental Corporation, Aseniwuche Development Corporation got together and hosted approx 110 employees and their guests to a traditional turkey dinner and a comedian at the Grande Cache Hotel to show their gratitude and appreciation for all their hard work and dedication over the year, it was an evening of fun and laughter.

This year, with the support of our industry partners, we were able to gift approximately 165 AWN community households with turkey gift cards to ensure everyone could have a healthy holiday dinner.

We couldn't have done all of this without the help of our partner's who are our main supporter's in all community events we do, it was a festive joyous season of giving and showing our gratitude. A big warm thank you to our partner's for their donations and sponsorships, from AWN and our community.

CARIBOU PATROL PROGRAM Contributed by Stephanie Leonard

CARIBOU PATROL

FROM THE PROGRAM

Happy New Year from the Caribou Patrol Team! We are hoping for bigger and better things in 2026, so keep watching our newsletters and facebook page. Thank you for signing up for the Caribou Patrol mailing list. Here, we will tell you about the program's progress, our plans, and the activities of our caribou and patrol crew. If you have questions that you would like answered or specific topics you would like to see addressed, please let us know, and we'll do our best to include them in a future issue.

RECENT ACTIVITIES

With the end of fall migration and the start of the New Year, the Caribou Patrol Team has started to plan for 2026

UPCOMING ACTIVITIES

Caribou Patrol is excited to announce that we will be attending Deep Freeze Festival in Edmonton as per usual. The festival dates this year are January 17-18, 2026. We hope the weather cooperates with us and the festival does not live up to its name. If you happen to be nearby, please stop in to say hello!

CARIBOU TIDBIT: DESCRIPTION?

Caribou have a brown body with a cream colored neck, mane, tail and rump. Their winter coat is really dense and heavy to protect from the cold and high winds. They have two layers of fur- fine, crinkly underfur and thick coat of guard hairs on top. The guard hairs are hollow and have air cells in the hair that act like insulation, keeping the caribou's body heat in. They have small tails, short ears, and compact bodies, and that keeps them protected too. These features reduce the amount of heat that can be lost through the skin. Caribou are the only member of the deer family to have a fur covered muzzle which allows them to regulate their body temperature. The muzzle acts as a heat exchanger, warming and cooling air to reduce heat and moisture loss as they breathe in and out.

Woodland caribou are the largest and darkest of the caribou subspecies, and they also have the heaviest antlers. Woodland Caribou can weigh up to 700 pounds and reach 4 to 5 feet in height at the shoulder and have long legs to help them move through deep snow. They have large hooves with four toes, two in the back (dewclaw) which increase the weight-bearing area, and 2 in the front (hoof) which are hollow underneath and can grow to remarkable lengths in the winter. This gives the caribou firm footing on ice and crusty snow while also allowing them to use their feet like shovels for digging for lichen under snow up to a meter deep. In the summer, these hollow hooves also make caribou efficient swimmers, which allows them to jump quickly into the water to escape from predators. Caribou can find their way straight across a lake that is too wide to see the other side. Caribou hooves also spread out quite wide, working like snowshoes in snow and muskeg and paddles in the water, they also are hairy underneath, giving them a good grip when walking on frozen ground, ice, mud, and snow.

Although caribou can withstand the cold temperatures and harsh terrain of the Arctic tundra, they have a tough time coping with insects in the summer. They have been known to run for kilometres just to escape the hordes of bugs.

Caribou are generally silent animals except after calving and during the rut. After calving, cows communicate with their young in short grunts. Males vocalize during the rut with a snorting, bellowing sound. Herds of snorting caribou may sound like pigs. Especially vocal are the bands of cows and new-born calves, constantly communicating with each other. Another sound which caribou make, though not vocal, is the sharp clicking noise resulting from the movement of the tendons snapping over sesamoid bones just above the hooves. This noise is heard most clearly on calm cold days as groups of animals travel together

This YouTube video has a great compilation of the sounds a caribou can make.

THE CARIBOU

December was always incredibly quiet. Though the fall migration wrapped up a little later than normal, and there were a few caribou sighting in the early part of the month. We are expecting the quiet to continue through January and February, but our caribou love to buck trends, so please continue to pay attention as you travel Highway 40 and report any caribou you do see.

Citizenship Applications

Happy new year! its hard to believe that it is already 2026! 2025 was a busy year.

Citizenship applications remain open, and eligible individuals are still welcome to submit their applications.

The earlier deadline that many people heard about applied only to those who wanted to be eligible to vote in the 2025 elections. In order to participate in that election cycle, applicants needed to complete the citizenship process by a specific cutoff date. That deadline has now passed.

Citizenship itself is not limited to election timelines. Anyone who meets the eligibility requirements can still apply for citizenship at any time. Applications submitted now will continue to be processed according to standard procedures.

Becoming a citizen offers many long-term benefits beyond voting, including greater security of status, access to additional rights, and the ability to fully participate in future opportunities. Missing the voting-related deadline does not affect an individual's ability to apply or be approved for citizenship.

If you have been considering applying but delayed because of uncertainty around deadlines, it is important to know that the application process is ongoing. Eligible residents are encouraged to apply when they are ready and to ensure their application is complete and accurate.

Citizenship is a significant and meaningful step, and while election deadlines may come and go, the opportunity to apply remains open.

Have questions or want an application? come see our citizenship clerk at the AWN Building, or you can email **citizenshipclerk@aseniwuche.com**.
